Weekend Update

Manchester Police responded to three robberies over the weekend, arrested a 20-year old for breaking into cars on Hollis Street and a man who engaged in a domestic assault inside of his south end home.

The first robbery was reported on Friday afternoon in the area of 230 Lowell Street. Officers were dispatched at 2:40 p.m. on May 6th for a possible stabbing. Officer Brett Fernald spoke with Brandie Jones, 26 of Manchester, New Hampshire and she stated her husband was involved in a fight with an unknown male before both parties fled the area.

Jones stated her husband, James Jones, 29 of Manchester, New Hampshire fled the scene because he had an active arrest warrant. Officers located James inside of his Concord Street residence a short time later and spoke with him about the alleged stabbing. He denied being stabbed and was checked out for minor abrasions as a result of a fist fight with the unknown Hispanic male. He stated the man robbed him and took over $200.00 during the altercation.

Officers are following up on several leads and do not believe this is a random act of violence. Jones was placed into custody on the outstanding warrant (another agency warrant, so I do not have the original charge).

The second robbery was reported at 4:25 p.m. on May 6th at 60 Rogers Street. Tom DeBlois, of Manchester, New Hampshire was seated in his office when an unknown masked male entered his office and pointed a handgun at him while demanding cash.

DeBlois relinquished his IPhone and wallet containing a large amount of cash. The man threw the wallet after removing the cash and then fled the scene on a Schwinn bicycle. DeBlois provided an excellent description of the man who was apprehended a short time later inside of a Somerville Street apartment complex.

Officer Guy Kozowyk spoke with the arrested subject; Jonathan Cassavant, 36, No Fixed Address inside of 638 Somerville Street, apartment #1. He located a BB gun (handgun), two masks and gloves inside of the apartment. However, he was unable to locate the cash or IPhone. Cassavant was arrested and charged with Armed Robbery (F). He will appear in the 9th Circuit Court-Manchester on May 9, 2016.

Officers responded to a domestic assault call on Mammoth Road at 6:10 p.m. last night. Officers initially made contact with Dominic DeLuca, 51 of Manchester, New Hampshire. However, he refused to vacate the house and walked inside ignoring the officers on scene.
