

1918 Manchester City Directory

In 1918 the City of Manchester had a population of over 70,000 people. The City Directory listed the name of a citizen (usually male), the name of the spouse (if married), the occupation and the place of residence. The directory states "for the year ending November 1918". In all likelihood, the enumeration took place at the end of 1917 and the beginning of 1918. Individuals serving in World War I are featured with the armed services division they had enlisted under.

When a death date is given, that does not mean the death occurred in Manchester.

The Manchester City Directory for 1918 is a transcription from an original copy. The entries have been abbreviated due to space considerations. After the name of a street, the word "street" has been omitted.
