Transparency Initiative Goes Live on City Website Gatsas vows to continue to open up government

MANCHESTER, NH - - Today the transparency initiative, first announced by Manchester Mayor Ted Gatsas in his Inaugural address, went live on the city website. “For our city government to reach its maximum potential we must earn the trust of city residents. Today’s announcement is a first step in this initiative,” began Gatsas.

All accounts payable expenditures within a department totaling $10,000 are listed on the department web page using the link “Department Expenditures.” The list may also be viewed in its entirety using the link: www.manchesternh.gov/transparency. The listing will be updated on a monthly basis.

“I hope that the city residents will use this opportunity to review how their tax dollars are being spent. If we are going to become more efficient then we must resolve to have total transparency at every level of our government. I look forward to continued work and cooperation amongst department heads,” concluded Gatsas.
